Living Room

The living room is one of the most used spaces in the house, which means it not only needs to look great but also needs to be functional and comfortable. Accomplishing this trifecta can be a design challenge, no doubt, so we rounded up the best living room examples to inspire your own decorating projects and make the process a whole easier. From modern and formal spaces to approachable and rustic environments, there's a living room idea you'll want to take home.

Kitchen

The kitchen is probably the most used room in your house (and if it's not, we're about to change that with these irresistible remodelling ideas!), so you want it to be a space you enjoy spending time in. And aside from functioning appliances, a kitchen design you'll love for years to come is of utmost importance.

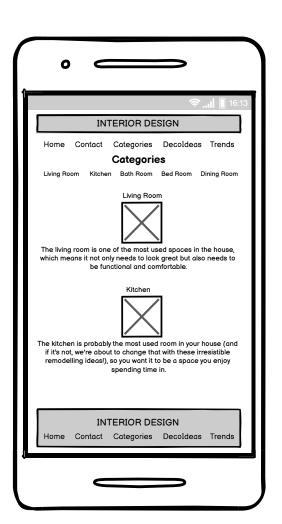

Bathroom

Successful bathroom design requires working with the constraints of the space you have to make important decisions about how the room functions and flows. This means thinking about things like how best to design the shower for maximum comfort and efficiency. Where to place the bathtub if you have the space and desire for one. What size and type of vanity you can fit into your particular bathroom. How to work around existing window placement to maximize air flow and natural light. What kind of door works best for privacy and ease of use, or, in the case of a primary suite, whether to install a door at

1. Enhance a Backyard View

Working with landscape architect Lila Fendrick, designer Nestor Santa Cruz chose a wall of steel and glass windows and doors for this formal pool house living room that leads to the backyard. Though the glass decor, from the pendant light to the coffee table and doors, leaves a decidedly sleek impression, the plush rug and ethereal curtains make it extra cozy, too.

2. Work Around Restrictions

When designer Celerie Kemble moved into this New York City apartment, there was only one thing that prevent edit from being the perfect fit: The building had a no wallpaper rule. To work around that obstacle, she applied a light shade of pink paint in a plaster-like finish that channels the texture of wallpaper.

3. Mix Clean Lines With Casual Materials

In the living room of designer Devin Kirk, a light shade of blue-gray along with clean-lined furniture makes for a polished backdrop while the woven chairs, light wood side table, and tree stump coffee table ensure a laidback atmosphere. It's the perfect balance of approachable and formal.

4. Incorporate Fun Trees and Plants

Invite some nods to nature into your living room with quirky indoor plants and trees. Designer Elizabeth Cooper placed a lush citrus tree in the corner for an extra pop of life and colour and then staggered topiaries on the windowsill.
